Song for Autumn – Mary Oliver

Don't you imagine the leaves dream now how comfortable it will be to touch the earth instead of the nothingness of the air and the endless freshets of wind? And don't you think the trees, especially those with mossy hollows, are beginning to look for the birds that will come—six, a dozen—to sleep inside their bodies? And don't you hear the goldenrod whispering goodbye, the everlasting being crowned with the first tuffets of snow? The pond stiffens and the white field over which the fox runs so quickly brings out its long blue shadows. The wind wags its many tails. And in the evening the piled firewood shifts a little longing to be on its way.

Oliver was an American poet who died in 2019. Her work reflects an awareness of spirituality and a deep bond with nature, so is popular for use in public worship and personal devotion. - Julia

AUTUMN PRAYER

Oh easy-going, lovely natured thing Come gently to this troubled life and bring Good humour, sweet forgiveness, love and grace, Bring gratitude and peace upon this place.
Feed our sorrows to the morning birds, May their songs bring truth into our words,
In sadness let us feel each other's worth, Turn our lonely losses into earth.

Leunig
